

Maritime Trip Day 14 September 05, 2010 57 degrees F, sunny but windy

Hurricane Earl dropped much needed rain water here in the Gaspé Peninsula but today it is sunny and cool. We were all up early so decided to leave ahead of schedule! By 8:30 we were rolling down the road with a 320 mile drive ahead. It did not start off well because we missed the first turn and the GPS lady rerouted us over hill and dale unto gravel roads until we finally got back on track but by then she (GPS Lady) was on a crazy roll and kept sending us off into the wild blue yonder! We saw some beautiful countryside with the Saumon (Salmon) River flowing alongside the highway for many miles and the mountains in the background. Fisherman were trying their luck in both canoes and in waders.

We arrived at the Camper's City Campground by 4:00 Atlanta Time Zone. We cooked up homemade sausage and fresh cabbage & sweet corn from the Quebec City Market. Dominoes, tea and strawberry banana bread finished off our evening. I finally won!!
